

Contacts

Email: grande.romualdo@hsacco.it

Tel: +39 0239044036

Website: www.climvib.eu

Romualdo Grande, M.D.

54 y/o, he's a medical microbiologist at ASST Fatebenefratelli Sacco, a Teaching University Hospital of the metropolitan Milan Area, Italy.

He graduated in Medicine at University of Pavia (Italy) and specialized in Diagnostic Microbiology and Virology at University of Milan (Italy). He has more than 20 years of experience in the field of clinical pathology and clinical microbiology. He is currently in charge of the laboratory of parasitology and micology of the Clinical Microbiology, Virology and Bioemergency Unit, headed by Professor Mariarita Gismodo. He is Biosafety and Bioemergency officer of both the laboratory and the department and he is in charge of the BSL4 Lab of the Emergency Department of Luigi Sacco Hospital. He is member of AACC (American Association of Clinical Chemistry), ASM (American Society of Microbiology), ESCMID (European Society of Clinical Microbiology and Infectious Diseases) AMCLI (Associazione Microbiologi Clinici Italiani) and SolPA (Società Italiana di Parassitologia). He is also member of the parasitology board of AMCLI. He is author and co-author of many international scientific papers.